Presentation: Finishing
By Don Comer

Challenge: Bottle Stoppers

President's Message

Happy New Year! 2007 is going to be another big year for the Glendale Woodturners. Our AAW Collaborative Challenge is swinging into high gear. Jay Jackson has spent countless hours on the project hand drawing and then using a 3D computer program. He redesigned the base and many other parts. Then he scaled all of the parts to size and made copies, so we each had our own piece of the design on paper. Thanks Jay for all of your hard work!

If you have not signed up for a committee there are still lots of parts and the base you can work on. We want every member involved.

Since we didn't have a Presentation for the January meeting we took the time for the committee heads to get together and assign parts. It was time well spent.

Dave Ellis had announced that the January Challenge would be Bottle Stoppers but wires got crossed and it was listed on the web site as hollow forms. So I decided we would just skip the Challenge for January. Next month is definitely Bottle Stoppers. These are easy and fast to make so I want to see lots of competition.

Don Comer is working on getting Binh Pho for an all day demo on March 10th. He just has to verify the date and it is a done deal. Binh will demonstrate air brushing and piercing. It is a fabulous demo not to be missed!

The El Camino Woodturners Guild is having Robert Rosand on February 25th. I am sure he will be worth traveling to the college to see.

Once again we had tons of wood for the raffle. Several members brought wood and everyone who bought tickets left with a heavy load!

Bob Stone and Floyd Peterson have been picking up wood from the furniture place for the last two years for our raffle. Thanks guys! This year Bob's back trouble has gotten worse, so he won't be able to do it any longer. We all thank Bob and appreciate all the work he has done getting the wood every month.

This month Don Comer volunteered to do a presentation on finishing. Don is definitely an expert on this topic and as they say "finish makes the piece". And speaking of Comer's, thanks go out to Jackie for taking over Refreshment duty for Cathy Pearman who was on a cruise with her husband.

We got some freebies in the mail so at the February raffle instead of just wood we will have 3 pen kits and a couple of American Woodturner magazines. See you next month. Happy turnings!

Queen Carey

Show and Tell

Dave Ellis brought in two oak bowls and two bowls made from unknown wood.

Jack Wooddell made a beautiful bowl of Black Acacia and another Tall hollow vessel and finished them both with a food safe finish of walnut oil.

Jim Givens made a hollow vessel using Tulip wood.

Floyd Petersen brought in a segmented bowl and a segmented hollow vessel. Both with a waterlox finish. Beautiful work.

Jim O'Connor brought in two balls that he colored with pens and then applied a lacquer finish to preserve the colors.
